BRIEF HISTORY OF THE LBSNAA, MUSSOORIE

On April 15, 1958, the Home Minister announced in the Lok Sabha the proposal to set up a National Academy of Training where training in foundational and fundamental subjects would be given to all the recruits of the senior grades of service. The Ministry of Home Affairs decided to amalgamate the IAS Training School Delhi and the IAS Staff College, Simla and to form a National Academy of Administration at Mussoorie. The Academy started functioning in Mussoorie which is a hill station at a height of little over 2000 metre; and at a distance of 35 Km. by road from the rail head at Dehradun. The Academy was housed in the prestigious `Charleville Hotel built around 1870. This provided the location and initial infrastructure for the Academy. There have been subsequent expansions. Several new buildings have been constructed and acquired over the years.

NAME & TITLE

In the beginning the name of the Academy was `National Academy of Administration'. Its status was an `Attached Office' of the Government of India under the Ministry of Home Affairs. (GOI, MHA's letter No. 29/47/59-AIS (I) dated 26/12/59)

In October 1972, its name was changed and the new name given was `LAL BAHADUR SHASTRI ACADEMY OF ADMINISTRATION'. (GoI Notification No. 32/102/72-Trg. Dt. 13.11.72).

In July, 1973, the word `NATIONAL` was added and the Academy is now known as the `LAL BAHADUR SHASTRI NATIONAL ACADEMY OF ADMINISTRATION'. (GOI Notification No. 32/102/72-Trg.. (Vol.I&II) dated 5.7.73).

campus are the Foundational Course, the IAS Professional Course Phase-I and the IAS Professional Course Phase-II.

STRATEGY FOR TRAINING

The effort of the Academy as a training institution is to help in creating a bureaucracy that commands respect by performance rather than through position. [We interpret the Constitutional mandate for civil servants as one that promotes empathy for the unprivileged, commitment to the unity and integrity of the nation; a promise to uphold integrity and impeccable character in a manner that they appear as role models for the large number of subordinates working with them and for the society at large; a respect for all castes, creeds, religion; and a professional competence that makes the battle against poverty eradication the ultimate objective of every civil servant]. At a time when nations are going global in the processes of liberalisation and economic reforms, it is our endeavour to make young civil servants realise the need for upholding enlightened national interest in their interface with the world at large. We also try to learn from the experiences of bureaucracies that have helped in the achievement of economic progress, growth with equity, and human well being in other nations.

Courses

A brief outline of the various courses is given in the paragraphs that follow:

FOUNDATION COURSE (15 Weeks)

This course, intended for members of the three All India Services, namely the Indian Administrative Service, the Indian Police Service, the Indian Forest Service and the various Central Services (Group - 'A'), is conducted twice a year, from September to December and from March to June. . The course is run with the aim of imparting a basic understanding of the constitutional, political, socio-economic and legal framework of the country, to foster greater coordination among the members of the different public service by building esprit-de-corps and to cultivate a spirit of cooperation and inter-dependence. The endeavour is also to make the Officer Trainees professional in their approach and aware of the challenges and opportunities, within the civil service. Since the Officer Trainees are new entrants in the Government. there is an attempt to familiarize the Officer Trainees with the Political, Economic, Social and Administrative Environment, through well defined syllable.

IAS PROFESSIONAL COURSE, PHASE-I (24 weeeeks)

On completion of the Foundation course, the IAS Officer Trainees undergo the Professional Course Phase-I. This seeks to develop their professional competence to handle the large range of responsibilities, which an officer shoulders in the five years of service. The course aims to strengthen the understanding of the environment in which an IAS Officer has to function, and to develop values, ideals and attributes desirable in an officer belonging to the IAS. Substantial emphasis is laid on understanding of public systems and their management, in addition to grounding in Public Administration, Law, Economics and Computer Applications. During the Phase-I training, the IAS Probationers are also sent on a winter study-cum-Bharat Darshan comprising of a number of attachments such as with the three Armed Forces, Public Sector, Private Sector Units, a Municipality, Voluntary Agencies, Non Government Organisations and Stock Exchange etc. The Winter Study Tour ends with the Bureau of Parliamentary Studies and Training (BPST) where Officer Trainees get an opportunity to meet the parliamentarians and various other dignitaries in the Capital.

Introduction

These attachments give the officer an opportunity to experience the diversity of our country. It also gives them opportunity to see and understand closely the functioning of various organizations. From March to June the officers are subjected to the strict discipline of class room training. Here, professional inputs for Public Administration, Management, Law, Computer and Economics are given according to the syllabus approved by the Government of India. On conclusion of the Phase-I course, the IAS Officer Trainees are sent to the States of their allotment for a period of one year for on-the-job-training.

DISTRICT TRAINING (52 weeks)

The district training is an important link between the IAS Professional Courses Phase-I and Phase-II. Through this training the Officer Trainees learn about the various facets of administration at the district level. During this period he/she is under the direct control of the District Collector and the State Government. The Officer Trainees get an opportunity to get first hand knowledge of the work of the Collector/ District Magistrate and various other institutions in the state government. He/she may also get an opportunity of holding charge as Tehsildar/Mamlatdar and Sub Divisional Magistrate, Block Development Officer and District Development Officer, Chief Executive Officer of Municipality etc. The Officer Trainees are also required to do a few assignments given by the Academy, based on field studies in the District. The Counsellors nominated by the Academy for the various cadres remain in touch with the Officer Trainees by way of correspondence, field visits to their districts and contact with his/ her collector during this period.

IAS PROFESSIONAL COURSE, PHASE-II (10 weeks)

While theoretical concepts are sought to be imparted in the Foundational and Phase-I courses, ground level realities are studied during the district training, the Phase-II is a time for sharing experiences across the country, as all the Officer Trainees return to the Academy from different districts in India, enriched by their experiences. The course content of Phase-II is designed for consolidating the learning and assimilating the district experience gained by the Officer Trainees over one year in the field during attachments in the state and at the district level with the theoretical constructs taught earlier. It gives an opportunity to the Officer Trainees to re-examine the field realities in the context of theoretical inputs provided in the Academy. The Phase-II course specifically seeks to provide an opportunity to trainees to reflect on the district training to develop their understanding of the issues involved in administration and to get an awareness of problems and situations which they will face in the initial years of their careers.

IN-SERVICE COURSES

The Academy undertakes one or more of the three slotted courses for inservice training of members who have put in a number of years of service as members of the Indian Administrative Service at different levels of seniority. These courses are for (i) IAS officers with 17-20 years of seniority who are at policy making levels, (ii) IAS Officers of 10-16 years seniority and (iii) IAS officers of 6-9 years seniority. In-service courses are also conducted for officers on the select list or promoted to the IAS. The aims of the in-service courses are to update levels of knowledge, skills and information and to provide opportunities for exchange of ideas, views and experiences with people who have developed expertise in different sectors of national development. Considerable focus is given to new managerial thoughts, techniques, skill as well as to frontier areas of technology and its management. There is an emphasis to give the Induction course participant an all India perspective.

SEMINAR / WORKSHOPS

Introduction

A number of seminars/ workshops are also organised in specific subject areas. Experts / Academicians are invited to participate, who also interact with the participants of various courses. In addition, the Academy is conducting courses in training methodology to upgrade and sharpen the skills of its faculty, as well as faculty of various National, Central & State Training Institutions.

PROFESSIONALISM

We make it clear that the voyage of public service is a hazardous one. It is for the civil servant to make a clear choice if he or she wants to live with respect, dignity and honour. We try to highlight accountability in the eyes of the people and in one's own esteem as the greatest badge of honour. The ability to work effectively depends on professional abilities and a commitment to constitutional values. As a nation, we implement one of the largest Rural Employment Programs and our effort is to professionally equip civil servants to seek support from the Panchayati Raj Institutions and to promote the participation of the people. Motivating subordinates is a critical area for all administrators and our effort is to equip them with competencies that can promote such interaction. The use of Participatory Rural Appraisal to seek the participation of people and the use of Participatory Training Methodologies in motivating field functionaries are some innovations that have been tried out.

Attachments with the Army, Navy and the Air Force exposes young administrators to the security situation and the ways in which our security forces function in forward areas. A National Security Essay Competition is also held in collaboration with the Army.

PERSONALITY DEVELOPMENT

In order to promote an all rounded development of the personality a great deal of emphasis is placed on the outdoors. Besides treks in the Himalayas, Physical training, Cross-Country Run, Yoga, Horse Riding, River Rafting, Para Gliding and Pistol shooting is also provided. Film Making, Public Speaking, a Theatre workshop, Motor Mechanics, Gardening, Photography and Music Appreciation are some of the options provided to young administrators. An opportunity to learn games from coaches of the Sports Authority of India is made available.

CURRICULUM

The academic curriculum is constantly reviewed and updated to keep it relevant. This is done on the basis of extensive consultations with the State Governments through the State counsellors, and the bi-annual conference of representatives of the State Governments and the Central Government.

It was clear to us that conventional classroom lecture methodology would be the most inappropriate to impact on attitudes and values. We have therefore innovated with several new methodologies, and achieved significant successes. Most of the courses operate on a modular structure. According to this, relevant themes are chosen and dealt with in a consolidated fashion so that all aspects relating to them are dealt with comprehensively. A module may consist of all or some of the following methodologies:-

Methodology

1. Lectures by both in-house and guest faculty.
2. Panel discussions – to promote divergence of opinions and views.
3. Case studies.
4. Film discussions – to critique on certain social value.
5. Groups discussions.

 - (b) Visit to villages in backward district to understand the problems and the reality of the village life.

VALUES

LBSNAA seeks to impart to civil servants the attitudes and values appropriate for public service. The skills and knowledge required by a professional civil servant are relatively easier to impart, and these have traditionally been the strength of the Academy. However, to impinge positively in the brief period available to us for training, on the attitudes and values of intelligent young men and women in their mid-twenties or older, drawn from a wide variety of backgrounds and experiences, is a much more formidable task.

Introduction

There is a consensus about the attitudes and values required for public service. These are integrity, moral courage, empathy with and respect for the underprivileged, and freedom from any sectarian prejudices based on religion, region, caste, class or gender. However, it is precisely these values that are under greatest siege and threat today in the wider society, particularly in the light of turbulent conflicts and upheavals of the last decade in our country.

To encourage the development of these values the officer trainees are encouraged to participate in social activities. They were given responsibility for improving the Balwadi School. The problem of solid waste management and biodegradable has also been addressed by them. Through intervention of NGO groups working in Mussoorie, rag pickers have been picking plastic waste from the office campus and residences. The families of the employees of the Academy have been instructed to segregate the waste at source itself as a result of it the plastic waste that is collected is clean and useable and is sent for re-cycling to Dehradun. As a result the rag pickers are earning living out of this. Additional waste generated through the disposal of fused bulbs, tubes etc. and other paper waster generated by the Academy is also sent for recycling .

Another related methodology has been to use theatre, including street theatre to demonstrate & discuss the value. Well known progressive street theatre groups have been invited to stage plays on communalism, corruption, oppression by bureaucratic functionaries and so on, and these have been well received. Habib Tanvir's landmark play on humanism and secularism "Jis Lahore Nahhun Dekhya Who Jamya Nahin" and " Charan Das Chor" is always a favourite with the officers. In every major course Officer Trainees donate Blood at least once. A regular health camp is organised for urban and rural poor of Mussoorie on every Thursday. We have found that the young officer trainees have responded extremely favourably to these measures, and their natural idealism has stood strengthened and reinforced.

The Academy has a practice of inviting the officers who have completed 25 years of service in the IAS to interact with the Officer Trainees in the Phase-II Programme. This is designed to a system to promote interaction between the fresh recruits and the officers with 25 years of seniority to give the Officer Trainees an insight into the challenges to be faced by them in the future. The young recruits discuss the complexities of Govt. functioning and some of the important issues covered are the bureaucracy political interface and ethics.

This also gives and opportunity to the officers with 25 years of service behind them to come back to their alma mater and interact with young minds, reflect upon the past, and look forward to planning the future.

For the last four years, the Academy is also being inviting the officers who joined the service 50 years back to interact with the young officer trainees of the Phase-II Programme. This programme is also called a 'Retreat', held in the honour of these retired civil servants. There is a discussion on topical issues in Government today and the participants come out with some recommendations in the form of Committee Reports and Recommendations.

The Academy Spirit

All Officer Trainees in the All India Service and Central Services come to the Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration at Mussoorie, which is their first phase of training in the portals of national bureaucracy. As a result, this institution is a bond between young officers who join the career as senior government officers. The Academy, thus furthers a creation of brotherhood among the officers and a nostalgia attached to this institution. A striking feature of the Academy, apart from its state of the art infrastructure, is its quaint mixture of the new and the old.

The Participants

During the year a total of 63 courses/ workshops/ seminars were conducted. A total number of 1945 participants attended. This is against 2054 participants in 73 courses/ workshops/ seminars organised during 1998. The table below shows the distribution of trainees in various courses during 1998 and 1999.

Out of 1945 participants in 1999, 339 were women. The representation of women participants during the year 1998 was 252. (Please see chart below)

2. FACULTIES

2.1 Faculty of Public Administration and Social Management

There is a conscious attempt in the Academy to attract faculty from various services so that they bring in with them the knowledge of the latest development in their fields of work. The subject Public Administration forms a key input in all the training courses organised in the Academy. The faculty of Public Administration and Social Management plays an important role in all the training courses. Since most of the faculty members are here on deputation basis, there is a constant updating of knowledge and information of the faculty.

The Joint Director heads the Public Administration faculty. The Public Administration Faculty has a strength of 12, comprising 11 Deputy Directors and 01 Professor of Social Management. During the year, Smt. Geeta Mishra, Indian Railway Personnel Service and Shri TVSN Prasad, Indian Administration Service joined the faculty, while Shri Sundeep Nayak proceeded on one-year study leave to London School of Economics. Brief biodata of the Faculty members is placed at Annex- I.

Apart from the responsibility of training of subject specific inputs, the members of the Public Administration Faculty look after different administrative responsibilities like Personnel, Estates, Supplies & Store, Accounts, Finance & Budget, Library, Computers and Outdoor activities. These form an essential element of the Academy's day to day running & functioning.

2.2 Faculty of Management

Considering the ever increasing need to educate the administrators in management concepts, tools and techniques, an independent faculty of Management was created in 1989. There is now an emphasis on management techniques successfully adopted in the private sector and equally applicable in government. The Management faculty attempts at streamlining this private sector management and applying it to the government context. This context is defined not only with respect to the administration in the Secretariat of the various state governments and Central Government but also with in the administration in the field.

The course content is designed keeping in mind the training needs of the participants. Accordingly, the emphasis during the Foundational Course is on exposing the participants to basic concepts in the area of organisational behaviour, statistical methods of data analysis and project management. During the Phase-I of the IAS Professional Course, officer trainees are trained in the basic skills of Financial Management, Agri-business co-operatives, Project Management and Social Marketing. In addition, modules on Communication Skills, MIS and Monitoring of Social Sector programmes are conducted.

The Management Faculty has developed new sessions on Total Quality Management in government, which were conducted during the In-service training programmes.

The faculty of Management has been networking with other leading institutes to upgrade the course contents and pedagogy.

The Faculty of Management was co-ordinated by Shri Sanjeev Chopra and Shri B.V.R. Subrahmanyam. In addition, they were supported by guest faculty from IIM, Ahmedabad, ISTM, New Delhi and other senior IAS officers in the Govt. of India.

2.3 Faculty of Law

Law is an important input in all the courses conducted by the Academy during 1999. Constitutional Law, Administrative Law, Criminal Law, Civil Law, Revenue Law and Social Legislations formed the subject-matter of the curriculum. The Law training ensures that the Administrative actions are taken in conformity with the Rule of Law, that the actual acts of the civil servants are in harmony with human rights jurisprudence.

The Foundational Course is essentially knowledge – centered. The professional programmes are fundamentally skill-oriented. The In-Service courses are mainly directed towards enhancement of capability and appreciation of the law applicable to various sectors.

It was highlighted that law was not merely a body of Rules but a Social Science—a tool of social engineering; Law inputs for the various Foundation Courses and Professional Courses Phase-I and Phase-II were covered according to the detailed syllabi prescribed by the Government of India. However this syllabus has been modified keeping the objectives of the above courses in view. For the purpose of Professional Courses, the emphasis was more on `doing` rather than on `knowing`. During the In-Service Courses, upgradation of competence and attainment of professional excellence, so far as they related to the fields of law, were aimed at.

Teaching apart, the members of the Law Faculty were engaged in research-oriented studies in areas bearing on Social Justice, Human Rights, customary laws, Land Reforms, atrocities against Scheduled Tribes / Scheduled Caste, women and children, and the like.

2.4 Faculty of Economics

The main thrust of the economics inputs during the Foundation Course was on the basic principles of Micro and Macroeconomics. The coverage included review of the history of economic theory, and market failure.

Macroeconomics mainly focussed on the problem of unemployment and inflation, with particular reference to monetary and fiscal policies for dealing with these problems. The subject matter was introduced with a brief exposition of National Income Accounting.

Phase one was designed to build on what was already achieved in the Foundation Course. The thrust of the course during phase one was to expose the Officer Trainees to the problems facing the Indian Economy, and the kind of practical economic problems they might have to deal with in their jobs.

Apart from the industry-government interface and Indian Economics, the World Trade Organisation, the Officer Trainees were also exposed to India's monetary and fiscal policies, and questions relating to financial deregulation and micro credit were discussed intensively.

2.5 Faculty of History and Indian Culture

In view of the vast expanse of the syllabus that is to be covered under History and Indian Culture during the Foundational Course, this year the effort was to combine a few lectures with self-preparation. A question bank was formulated at the beginning of the course and circulated to all the Officer Trainees. This spanned Indian History from the Indus Valley civilization era to the Independence and also included questions on various aspects of the Indian Culture. For covering the necessary inputs in Indian History and Culture there is conscious attempt to review the lecture method and move to a lecture-cum-demonstration method so that the Officer Trainees are able to imbibe and get a feel of Indian History and Culture. For this a number of programmes like Shovana Narayan's Kathak Dance form, lectures of Habib Tanveer on Indian Theatre, Dr. Goswami on Miniature Paintings; Parag Trivedi on Music Appreciation, Tanushree Shankar on modern ballet culture relation to new Indian dance were organised.

Apart from this the Ministry of Culture, Government of India was instrumental in arranging for us groups from the North East Zone Cultural Centre which gave a deep insight into the cultural practices in north east. Manipuri renowned artiste Singhjit Singh and his wife Ms. Charu Lata explained how local culture and history form an expression in Manipuri by a dance performance.

We are happy to note that Indian Council for Cultural Relations has put the Academy on its itinerary for all their shows and entertainment programmes of international troupes. As a result we had programmes of Anand Karki from the Nepali troupe and also the Uganda troupe who gave an insight into the Ugandan dance and culture.

2.6 Faculty of Political Theory and Constitutional Law

The subject Political Theory and Constitutional Law are amongst the core-subjects prescribed for the Foundational Course and the IAS Professional Course. Both are intrinsically inter-disciplinary, embracing substantive problem areas of civic society.

In the Foundational Course, the main objective is to give an overview of the Indian political system, to enable trainees to comprehend the basic constitutional values, the institutional context and the power relations between different groups.

During the IAS Professional Course, Phase-I, the emphasis of the discussions was on the underlying causes and processes of our political dynamics. Topics like 'Public Protest and Parliamentary Democracy', 'Agrarian Unrest', 'Student Unrest' and 'Caste and Communal Unrest', were discussed in length. Trainees were also sensitised to the importance of 'Civil Liberties' and 'Human Rights in India'. A new topic, 'Political Stability' was also introduced and discussed in great length.

2.7 Faculty of Hindi & Regional Languages

The Faculty of Language provides basic training in Hindi and Regional Languages to equip the officers with the language of the state to which he/she has been allotted. Languages taught in the Academy apart from Hindi were: Assamese, Gujarati, Kannada, Manipuri, Oriya, Punjabi, Tamil, Telugu and Urdu.

The Faculty of Languages continued to work in the sphere of material development. Faculty members prepared teaching material handouts, and books in respective Languages for the Officer Trainees. They also kept themselves in touch with the latest development in the field of their languages by participating in seminars and training programmes. The faculty organised a workshop on 'Second Language Teaching and Use of Audio-Visual Teaching' from 10-06-99 to 12-06-99 and produced training oriented video films and audio-cassettes.

The faculty also offered training in French language to the Officer Trainees. This has been done under a joint collaboration with the Ecole National Administration (ENA) of France.

2.8 Faculty of Computers and Information Systems (NICTU)

Computer Training is one of the main inputs given to the Officer Trainees in the Academy. This is covered in most of the in-service Courses and the courses for select list officers conducted at the Academy as well. The Officer Trainees come from various backgrounds; some with a deep insight of computers and other with no or rudimentary knowledge of the same.

Faculties

In view of the development of Information Technology and computers, Government Offices with varying degrees of seniority who come in for training are exposed to computers, computer operation, promotion of e-governance and encouraged to develop skills for the same. The following topics are covered as part of the computer syllabus.

1. Geographical Information Systems using GISNIC was introduced for IAS Professional Course Phase-I
2. Case study methods were used for System Development Life Cycle and Database Designing during Phase-I
3. Lecture-cum-demonstrations were organised during IAS Professional Course Phase-I (1998 batch) and Phase-II (1997 batch) on application packages procured from NIC State Centres and District Centre.
4. Trainees were exposed to Client/ Server Systems using SQL Server 7.0 at the back end and MS-Access 97 as the front end.
5. "Web Design" and "Multimedia Presentations" were taught in ECM conducted for Foundation course.
6. A session was successfully organised for Foundational Course (1999 Batch) on Video Conferencing facility of NIC.

Guest speakers like Dr. K.K. Bajaj, Deputy Director General, NIC and Dr. Vandana Sharma, Technical Director, NIC HQ, New Delhi addressed the participants in several courses.

Home Page of NIC Training Unit, LBSNAA was designed and published and the URL Address is <http://202.41.104.88/>. Hindi version of the home page was also added to the site.

In the orientation workshops for district functionaries engaged in the literacy campaigns it has addressed a wide range of persons like District Magistrate, who is the Chairperson of the Zilla Saksharta Samiti, the ZSS Secretary, activists as well as panchayat representatives.

The NLRC is engaged in documenting the work undertaken by some literacy campaigns and preparing case studies, which are then, used as training materials and has come up with a book entitled 'Zile ki Kahani, Apni Zubani'. A detailed video documentation of the Dumka TLC has been done in the film "Patta Patta Akshar Hoga" with the help of Drishti Media Collective.

8.TQM IN TRAINING INSTITUTIONS

Under the aegis of the Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions (Department of Personnel and Training), Government of India, the Department for International Development (DFID), Government of UK, and the British Council Division (BCD), British High Commission, a Project has been developed to initiate Total Quality Management (TQM) practices in certain selected training institutions with a view to enhancing the productivity of these institutions. The Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration (LBSNAA), Mussoorie has been assigned the role of the "Lead Institute" to co-ordinate the Indian components of the project including monitoring and implementation of TQM initiatives in various institutes, and promoting good practices through publications and TQM Awareness Seminars. The project also envisages building LBSNAA's capacity as a TQM Research Unit for the government. An external training partner is also engaged for the delivery of the out-of-India Module. The partner is the Civil Services College, U.K.

TQM have in fact become an integral part of the courses run in the Academy. Some of the significant TQM topics are:

- i. Kaizen and 5 'S' system
- ii. Quality circles
- iii. Training management
- iv. Problem solving techniques.

These have been extremely useful to participants and they are being used to make major changes in the functioning of some offices leading to better service and better quality. The faculty is also co-ordinating the National Project on TQM in Training Institutions with the support of the Department of International Development (DFID), Government of UK, and the British Council Division (BCD), New Delhi.

At the root of this initiative is the project approach to training which takes the programme beyond the provision of training to Officer Trainees and delivery of training packages. The TQM training project for government training institutes not only aims at developing Action Plans in their institutes using the knowledge and skills acquired during the training but also provides for monitoring of the implementation of the Action Plans over the project period. It takes a further leap forward to periodically assess the quality of training institutions on the basis of pre-determined criteria and develop a system of self-assessment of training quality.

The Project in 1998 was in the implementation phase in five institutions. At the end of the year, in June 1998, all the institutions were assessed by two independent assessors for the progress made by them in implementing their action plans. Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration was given the award for the best implementation of the action plan. This award along with a Citation was presented to the Director of the Academy in the "Quality Summit" held in Delhi from 16 to 18 November, 1998 under the aegis of the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), New Delhi.

This year the Department of International Development (DFID), Government of UK, and the British Council Division (BCD), UK have funded the TQM Project in institutions for three more years covering 11 institutions. LBSNAA is the National Co-ordinator of the Project and Civil Service College; UK will be the UK Partner for training. This programme follows the following cycle.

TQM in Training Institutions

- i. Pre-UK training for two weeks in India
- ii. UK training for four weeks in UK
- iii. Preparation of action plans
- iv. Post UK Training, Feedback workshop and Awareness seminar for three days in India
- v. Implementation of action plans and assessment of implementation.

This training cycle will be repeated over three years covering all institutions. In addition, the project envisages the following:

- i. A newsletter called "Quality Government"
- ii. Establishment of a Quality Centre in LBSNAA
- iii. Publication of Quality Manual
- iv. Project on Quality in Government Institutions
- v. Preparation of TQM training courses.

In 1998-99, five state institutes participated in the training programmes conducted both in India and in the U.K. All institutes prepared action plans and the award for the best Action Plan was given to the Madhya Pradesh Academy of Administration.
